“The Old Dented Bucket”

Shared by Walt Bohn

Our house was directly across the street from the clinic entrance of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. We lived downstairs and rented the upstairs rooms to out-patients at the clinic.

One summer evening I was fixing supper, there was a knock at the door. I opened it to see a truly awful looking man. “Why, he’s hardly taller than my 8-year-old,” I thought as I stared at the stooped, shriveled body. But the appalling thing was his face, lopsided from swelling, red and raw.

Yet his voice was pleasant as he said, “Good Evening. I’ve come to see if you’ve a room for just one night. I came for a treatment this morning from the eastern shore, and there’s no bus ‘til morning.”

He told me he’d been hunting for a room since noon but with no success, no one seemed to have a room. “I guess it’s my face...I know it looks terrible, but my doctor says with a few more treatments.”

For a moment I hesitated, but his next words convinced me. “I could sleep in this rocking chair on the porch. My bus leaves early in the morning.”

I told him we would find him a bed, but to rest on the porch. I went inside and finished getting supper and when ready, asking if he would join us. “No, Thank you. I have plenty.” And held up a brown paper bag.

When I finished the dishes, I went out on the porch to talk with him a few minutes. It didn’t take a long time to see that this old man had an oversized heart crowded into a tiny body. He told me he fished for a living to support his daughter, her five children and her husband who was hopelessly crippled from a back injury.

He didn’t tell this by way of a complaint; in fact, every other sentence was prefaced with a thanks to God for a blessing. He was grateful that no pain accompanied his disease, which was apparently a form of skin cancer. He thanked God for giving him the strength to keep going.

At bedtime, we put a camp cot in the children’s room for him. When I got up in the morning, the bed linens were neatly folded, and the little man was out on the porch.

He refused breakfast, but just before he left for his bus, halting and asked a great favor, he said “Could I please come back and stay the next time I have treatment? I won’t put you out a bit. I can sleep fine in a chair” He paused a moment and then added, “Your children made me feel at home. Grownups are bothered by my face, but children don’t seem to mind”

I told him he was welcome to come again. On his next trip, he arrived a little after 7:00am. As a gift, he brought a big fish and a quart of the largest oysters I have ever seen! He said he had shucked them that morning before he left so that they’d be nice and fresh. I knew his bus left at 4:00am so I wondered what time he had to get up to do this for us.

In the years he came to stay overnight with us, there was never a time he didn’t bring a fish, oysters or vegetables from his garden. Other times we received packages in the mail, always by special delivery of fish and oysters packed in a box of fresh young spinach or kale, every leaf carefully washed. Knowing that he must walk three miles to mail these and knowing how little money he had made the gifts doubly precious.

When I received these little remembrances, I often thought of a comment our next-door neighbor made after he left that first morning. “Did you keep that awful looking man last night? I turned him away! You can lose roomers by putting up such people!”

Maybe we did lose roomers once or twice. But, Oh! If only they could have known him, perhaps their illnesses would have been easier to bear. I know our family always will be grateful to have known him; from him we learned what it was to accept the bad without complaint and the good with gratitude to God.

Recently while visiting a friend, who has a greenhouse, as she showed me her flowers, we came to the most beautiful one of all, a golden chrysanthemum, bursting with blooms. But to my great surprise, it was growing in an old dented, rusty bucket. I thought to myself, "If this were my plant, I'd put it in the loveliest container I had!"

My friend changed my mind. "I ran short of flowerpots," she explained, "And knowing how beautiful this one would be, I thought it wouldn't mind starting out in this old pail. It's just a little while, till I can put it out in the garden"

She must have wondered why I laughed so delightedly, but I can imagine just such a scene in heaven.

"Here's an especially beautiful one," God might have said when he came to soul of the sweet old fishman. "He won't mind starting in this small body."

All this happened long ago – and now, in God's Garden, how tall this lovely soul must stand. The Lord does not look at the things man looks at. Man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart." (1 Samuel 16:7B)

Friends are very special. They make you smile and encourage you to succeed. They lend an ear and they share a word of praise.

Mark your calendar! Sunday February 19th is our 110th Anniversary AND the installation of Pastor Robin Colerick-Shinkle. Our Planning Committee is hard at work to make this a very special day!

DWM NEWS

Hi Ladies,

The “Holidays” are over, and all is well. Plan to attend our January Third Thursday meeting the 19th at 1:00 in the library. We will continue our study Forgiving What You Can't Forget. All are welcome to attend. The more the merrier and the better the discussion.

Continue to save empty pill bottles, old eyeglasses, and can tabs. Also, if you have gently used warm clothing that you no longer need, the Shawnee Community Services can use your donations. Bring your items to the Church and Connie and I will deliver for you.

Looking ahead; February will be busy with our Church Anniversary and our new Minister arriving. All is well. That's all for now.
